Introduction

1. The present report is the fourth periodic report of the Government of the Republic of Azerbaijan submitted in accordance with Article 40, paragraph 1, of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (hereinafter “the Covenant”). The fourth periodic report reflects the measures taken by the Government of the Republic of Azerbaijan to implement the rights enshrined in the Covenant and the progress made in exercising those rights within the period between the years 2007-2013.

2. By the Presidential order No. 2963 of 24 June 2013 the working group was established for the preparation of the present report. The working group comprised the senior officials of the ministries of foreign affairs, internal affairs, justice, labour and social protection of population, youth and sport, economy and industry, culture and tourism, defense, national security, education, the Office of the Prosecutor-General, the State Committee for Family, Women and Children Affairs, State Statistics Committee, State Migration Service, Central Election Commission, the Council on the State Support to the Non-government Organizations under the auspices of the President of the Republic of Azerbaijan, State Committee for Work with Religious organizations, State Committee on deals of refugees and Internally displaced persons.

3. The report has been prepared in accordance with the Human Rights Committee’s general guidelines regarding the form and content of States’ reports under Article 40, paragraph 1, of the Covenant. During the preparation of the fourth periodic report special attention was paid to the recommendations given in the concluding observations (CCPR/C/AZE/CO/3) to the third periodic report of the Republic of Azerbaijan (CCPR/C/AZE/3).

4. As stated in the paragraphs 10-15 of the third periodic report, the major obstacle for the full and effective implementation of the Covenant remains the continuing occupation of the Azerbaijani territories by Armenia. In this regard, four resolutions (822, 853, 874, 884) adopted by the Security Council are not yet implemented. The resolutions reaffirmed the sovereignty, territorial integrity and inviolability of frontiers of the Republic of Azerbaijan and demanded the immediate, complete and unconditional withdrawal of all occupying forces from the occupied territories.

5. As the result of Armenian aggression, there are more than a million refugees and IDPs in the Republic of Azerbaijan which create serious impediments for the ensuring to those people the rights and freedoms enshrined in the Covenant.

Information on individual articles (1–27)

Article 1

6. The Republic of Azerbaijan reaffirms its commitment to recognize the right of people to self-determination, to freely determine their political status and to pursue their economic, social and cultural development.

7. Article 16 of the Constitutional Act of the Republic of Azerbaijan on State Independence stipulates: “The Republic of Azerbaijan shall, in accordance with the generally recognized rules of international law, build its relations with other States on the basis of the principles of the sovereign equality of States, the non-use of force or of the threat of force, the inviolability of State frontiers, the settlement of disputes by peaceful means, non-intervention in the internal affairs of other States, respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms, the equality of peoples and their right to self-determination, cooperation between States and the fulfillment in good faith of international legal obligations”.

8. The right of people to self-determination is of particular importance for the people of Azerbaijan, who, by implementing this right through their sustained efforts, lawfully regained its independence.

9. Article 2 of the Constitution of the Republic of Azerbaijan adopted at the national referendum on 12 November 1995 and came into force on 27 November of the same year, provides that it is the sovereign right of the people of Azerbaijan freely and independently to determine their destiny and establish their own form of government.

10. The Article further states: “The people of Azerbaijan exercise their sovereign right directly-by way of nation-wide voting — referendum, and through their representatives elected on the basis of universal, equal and direct suffrage by way of free, secret and personal ballot.”

11. The Republic of Azerbaijan is firmly convinced that the guiding principles of democratic societies — equality, the rule of law, respect for human rights, freedom of choice, and tolerance — should be applied in the same degree to international relations. Such relations should be founded on the principles of the sovereignty, equality and territorial integrity of States, non-interference in each other’s internal affairs and peaceful coexistence.

12. Azerbaijan further believes that realization of the right of people to self-determination must not be used as a pretext for infringement of the territorial integrity, national unity or ethnic harmony of independent States. From this point of view, the right of people to self-determination should be given its original, true significance; that would not destroy, but on the contrary strengthen the national independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity of States whose Governments advocate the interests of all members of their populations without distinction.

Article 2

13. Article 25 of the Constitution of the Republic of Azerbaijan provides the equality of all persons before the law and the courts. Since the submission of the third periodic report of the Republic of Azerbaijan, certain significant legislative and other measures had been taken for more effective implementation of Article 2 of the Covenant.

14. As the result of the referendum held on 18 March 2009 for making amendments to the Constitution, the content of the rights to equality and on non-discrimination was extended, their important safeguards were stipulated on constitutional level. In accordance with the amendments made to Article 25 of the Constitution, no one may be harmed, granted advantages or privileges, or refused to be granted advantages or privileges on the grounds of race, ethnicity, religion, language, gender, origin, property, official position, faith and other reasons. Everyone shall be guaranteed equal rights in any proceedings before state authorities and bearers of public authority that decide upon his rights and duties.

15. As a result of the significant economic development, the increase of the number of foreigners visiting Azerbaijan had been observed since the submission of the third periodic report of the Republic of Azerbaijan. Therefore, various measures have been taken for more effective protection of rights of foreigners and stateless persons. According to Article 69 of the Constitution of the Republic of Azerbaijan, foreigners and stateless persons staying in the territory of Azerbaijan shall enjoy all rights and must fulfill all duties equally with the citizens of the Republic of Azerbaijan unless otherwise provided by law or international treaty to which the Republic of Azerbaijan is a party. The rights and freedoms of foreigners and stateless persons permanently living or temporarily staying in the territory of the Republic of Azerbaijan may only be restricted in accordance with international legal rules and laws of the Republic of Azerbaijan.

16. Rights of foreigners and stateless persons are also regulated by Article 13 of the Labour Code of the Republic of Azerbaijan. According to this Article, foreigners and stateless persons may enjoy all labour rights and fulfill obligations arising from those rights equally to the citizens of the Republic of Azerbaijan while staying in the territory of the Republic of Azerbaijan, unless otherwise specified by the law or the international treaties to which the Republic of Azerbaijan is a party. The labour rights of foreigners and stateless persons, provided in the Labour Code and other normative legal acts can’t be restricted, unless specified by the law.

17. Pursuant to the Decree of the President of the Republic of Azerbaijan of July 8, 2013 about the application of Law of July 2, 2013 on “Approval, entering into force of the Migration Code of the Republic of Azerbaijan and legal regulation related to the matter”, The Migration Code of the Republic of Azerbaijan came into force on August 1, 2013. Rights of foreigners and stateless persons were reflected under Article 74 of the Code. According to this Article foreigners and stateless persons may enjoy all equal rights as the citizens of the Republic of Azerbaijan while staying in Azerbaijan Republic, if not specified otherwise by the law and the international agreements to which Azerbaijan is party.

18. With regard to the protection of rights of foreigners and stateless persons, it should be further mentioned that, in accordance with Article 439 of the Code of Civil Procedure, such persons have the right to appeal to courts of the Republic of Azerbaijan for protection of the their violated or disputed rights and interests protected by law. Foreign persons equally with the citizens of the Republic of Azerbaijan enjoy procedural rights and bear procedural obligations.

19. Regarding the internal protection mechanisms of the rights enshrined under the Covenant it should be stressed that a person may appeal directly to the court or, in subordination order, to the high state authorities, local self-government authorities, enterprises, institutions and organizations, public unions, officials for decisions and actions (inaction) that violate his rights and freedoms.

20. Commissioner for Human Rights (Ombudsman) can be indicated as another protection mechanism. The post of Commissioner was established in accordance with the constitutional law dated of 28 December 2001 for prevention and restoration of human rights and freedoms — determined in the Constitution and international agreements which the Republic of Azerbaijan is party to — violated by the state and local self-government authorities, and officials. Ensuring protection of civil and political rights is one of the main spheres of competence of the Commissioner. For that reason specialized sector was established for the investigation of applications on violation of human rights and freedoms on this field under the Apparatus of Human Rights Commissioner, and special counselor was empowered for this issue.

21. In response to the recommendation stated under paragraph 4 of the concluding observation on inclusion of the detailed information regarding the number and the outcome of complaints received and determined by the Office of the Human Rights Commissioner, as well as on the concrete actions taken by the authorities in each case, it must be stressed that the Commissioner carefully investigated all applications without discrimination by giving priority to field investigations, including those related to the violation of civil and political rights, and in each case took all necessary measures to restore violated rights. The table reflecting statistical indications concerning the complaints for 2008-2012 is attached to the present report (Annex 1).

22. Measures taken by Human Rights Commissioner for the protection of human rights and freedoms enshrined under the Covenant stated in the following paragraphs of the present report.

23. It should be noted that in order to ensure continuance of measures taken in the field of human rights “National Program for Action to Raise Effectiveness of the Protection of Human Rights and Freedoms in the Republic of Azerbaijan” (hereinafter “National Program for Action”) was approved by the decree of the President of the Republic of Azerbaijan of 27 December 2011. Improvement of legislation, enhancing activity of state organs, protection of rights of different groups of people and other measures were determined under the National Program for Action. Paragraphs 1.1 and 1.2 of the National Program of Action regarding the protection of rights — reflected under the Covenant — within the framework of national legislation should be specifically highlighted. The paragraph 1.1 of the mentioned program provides the necessity to be guided, as main criteria, by the human rights and freedoms enshrined in the Constitution of the Republic of Azerbaijan and the international treaties to which Azerbaijan is a party while drafting laws of the Republic of Azerbaijan. Implementation of the commitments and obligations arising from the international treaties on human rights and freedoms to which the Republic of Azerbaijan is a party and ensuring compliance of regulatory and legal acts of the Republic of Azerbaijan with international legal instruments were reflected in the paragraph 1.2 of the National Program for Action and the Cabinet of Ministers, the Administration of the President of the Republic of Azerbaijan, Ministries of Justice and Foreign Affairs, such as Scientific Research Institute for Human Rights of the Azerbaijan National Academy of Sciences were charged for implementation of these issues.

24. In general, several provisions under chapters of “protection of rights of various population groups”, “improving the activity of government agencies”, “educational, scientific analytical and enlightenment activities in the area of human rights”, “cooperation with international organizations in the field of human rights” and “coordination, monitoring and evaluation of the implementation of the National Program for Action” were reflected in the National Program for Action.

25. Another condition for achieving effective protection of the rights enshrined under the Covenant is the elimination of corruption cases in this field. In this regard, it should be highlighted that “National Strategy on Enhancement of Transparency and Fight against Corruption” was implemented during 2007-2011 years with the aim to improve the activity of the state bodies in compliance with modern standards.

26. By the decree of the Head of State dated to September 5, 2012, National Action Plans on the promotion of the Open Government and Combating Corruption were adopted. The Action Plans cover the period of 2012-2015 and aim to ensure sustainability of anti-corruption measures in the Republic of Azerbaijan, to increase transparency in the functioning of state bodies, to organize governance in accordance with modern standards and promote the principles of open government.

27. At the same time, pursuant to the recommendations of the Council of Europe’s Group of States against Corruption (GRECO) a number of significant amendments have been made to the Criminal Code in June 2011. The title of the thirty-third chapter of the Code was changed to “Corruption crimes and other crimes against public interests”, the issues like the circle of persons criminally liable for crimes of corruption and the enforcement of criminal law with regard to the crimes committed outside of the territory of the Republic of Azerbaijan were specified.
28. Moreover, in accordance with the law on the amendments to the Criminal Code dated to March 7, 2012 criminal liability of legal entities for criminal acts specified in Article 308 (abuse of power), 311 (reception of a bribe (passive bribery), 312 (presentation of a bribe (active bribery), 312.1 (illegal influence over the decision of the official (authority selling) 313 (service forgery) and other articles was determined.

29. According to the Constitutional Law “On Normative-Legal Acts” dated to December 21, 2010 a special emphasis was put on anti-corruption expertise of normative legal acts, and in accordance with the legislation, all the adopted normative-legal acts were included in the State Register of Legal Acts (www.huquqiaktlar.gov.az).

30. Paying special attention to the comprehensive and full investigation of crimes of corruption, organs in charge of internal security were established in the Ministry of Justice in 2006 such as Inspection to Supervise Execution of Punishments, as well as Group of Service Investigation under Organization and Supervision General Department, Internal Investigation Division under Penitentiary Service. At the same time a number of normative documents in this field were adopted, including “Code of ethical conduct of notary” in 2006, “Regulations of ethical conduct of justice servants” in 2007, “Regulations on carrying out of service control” in 2009, “Regulations on considering of complaints incoming into hot-line of the Ministry of Justice” in 2011, as well as new regulations simplifying procedure of reception of citizens in justice bodies.

31. Within the framework of anticorruption measures the monitoring group was established under the Ministry of Justice in 2011. The group by conducting regular monitoring to justice bodies in the different regions of the Republic studies the public opinion on the situation of compliance with executive and labor discipline, regulations of ethical conduct, and corruption. Necessary measures are taken for the elimination of the discovered shortcomings and the issues that resulted with public dissatisfaction. Taking into consideration the efficiency of this activity, by the order of the ministry dated to June 20, 2013 the composition of the group has been enlarged, representatives of civil society have been involved into its work, as well as the group has been granted with additional authorities.

32. International cooperation in the field of the fight against corruption is considered to be of utmost importance. Azerbaijan, being one of the founders actively participates in the work of International Association of Anti-Corruption Authorities which involves more than 140 states; minister of justice of the Republic of Azerbaijan is the vice president of the very organization. The Republic of Azerbaijan having acceded to the Statute of the International Anti-Corruption Academy has become its member.

33. At the same time by the Law dated to February 1, 2013 our country has acceded to the Additional Protocol of Criminal Law Convention on Corruption with respective interpretative declaration.

34. We note that 1015 persons were convicted under chapter thirty three of the Criminal Code (corruption crimes and other crimes against service interest) in 2007 — first six months of 2013 by the courts of first instances.

35. In accordance with the Decree of the President on provision of e-services by state agencies e-services section was put into use on the website of the Ministry of Justice. By means of this section citizens can obtain detailed information about working regime of justice bodies, deployment, contacts, rules for the conduct of a variety of legal services, required documents and fees, and can apply electronically and register for a reception.

36. In order to improve the efficiency of legal services rendered to the population, universal e-service kiosks were installed in a number of justice agencies, including all the notary’s offices of Baku city. Through the kiosks citizens can obtain necessary information. about the activities of the justice bodies without contacting administrative staff and get certain extracts. The possibility of making payments by plastic bank cards was made available in e-service kiosks used at the notary organs. The application of such positive practice has been launched at the registration organs as well.

37. In the framework of policies directed towards strengthening quality of service for citizens and the fight against corruption by the Presidential Decrees of 13 July and 5 September, 2012, the State Agency for Service of Citizens and Social Innovations (ASAN) under the auspices of the President of the Republic of Azerbaijan and ASAN service centers were established. This concept is based on principles of efficiency, transparency, politeness, responsibility, and comfort, and is designed to provide service to citizens in conditions of comfort, with new methods, in a more single and coordinated form, prevent corruption cases, and guarantee citizen satisfaction. As of now the ASAN Service Centers provides the services of nine state authorities.

38. It should be noted that, ASAN Service Centers have earned the people’s approval and during 2013 more than 500 thousand citizens made requests thereto. Out of the capital the ASAN Service operates mobile, and in the next years it is planned to cover all regions.

39. With regards to the judicial practice for the effective protection of the rights enshrined under the Covenant, as the first instance court, Shamakhi district Court can be taken as an example. During the 2009-2013 years this court referred to the Article 14 of the Covenant in 38 cases — 12 of them were on family relations, 7 on land, 6 on apartment, 3 on property, 1 on labor relations, 5 on property right, 3 on damage, and 1 on money request.

40. In addition, courts of Appeal referred many times to the Articles 9 and 14 of the Covenant in civil and criminal cases, for instance, in the decision of the Baku Court of Appeal dated to 29.08.2013, on case of A. Zeynalov against Sabayil district department of State Social Protection Fund for recalculation and reimbursement of pension, in the decision of the same court dated to 09.10.2012, on case of Kh. Huseynov against Department of Trade and Service of Baku City for delegation of duty for issuing license for selling alcoholic beverages and tobacco products to the defendant, moreover, in the judgment of Ganca Court of Appeal dated to 09.02.2012 on overruling Ganca District Court’s judgment on sentencing A. Baghirov for the breaching Article 221.2.2
(Hooliganism) of the Criminal Code.

Article 3

41. As stated above Article 25 of the Constitution of the Republic of Azerbaijan adopted on November 12, 1995 provides the right of equality, ensures equality of rights and freedoms irrespective of gender and prohibits restriction of rights and freedoms of a person and citizen due to sex. The principle of equality between women and men in all spheres of life was widely reflected in the legislation of the republic based on the Constitution.

42. Azerbaijan ratified almost all fundamental international documents on protection of women’s rights since its independence. The Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women adopted by the General Assembly in 1979, ILO Conventions No. 100 on Equal Remuneration for Men and Women Workers for Work of Equal Value, No. 111 on Discrimination in the field of employment and occupation and
No. 103 on Maternity Protection are of great importance among the international documents. Reports about implementation of the obligations arising from those international documents are periodically prepared and submitted to the respective international organizations.
43. Employer’s duties related to discrimination in employment were established by Article 7 entitled “Employer’s duties in employment” of the Law of the Republic of Azerbaijan on Gender Equality dated to 10 October, 2006. Article stipulates that employers must ensure equality of men and women in employment and fulfill the following duties:

- To treat equally and create equal opportunities for employees irrespective of gender in recruitment, promotion, professional retraining, mastering another specialty, further training, assessment of quality of activity and dismissal;
- To ensure equal working conditions for employees engaged in the same activity irrespective of gender;
- Not to apply different disciplinary measures to employees regarding the same violation irrespective of gender;

44. According to Article 8 entitled “Employer’s duties in eliminating gender discrimination” of the mentioned Law, in case an employer differently treats men and women employees in promotion, professional retraining, mastering another specialty, further training, assessment of quality of activity and dismissal, the employer must substantiate by demand of the employee that the different approach is not related to gender of the employees. A person, whose job application was rejected, has the right to demand written explanation from the employer about education, professional training, practice, professional skills and other advantages of a member of the opposite gender who was recruited, in comparison with her.

45. According to Article 9 titled “Equality in payment for work” of the mentioned Law, employees worked for the same company, having the same professional skills, employed in the same working conditions and carried out the work of the same value must be paid equal salary as well as equal awards and other payments made for motivation of employees, irrespective of their gender. In case salary, awards or other payments made for motivation of employees are different, the employer must substantiate by demand of the employee that the different salaries are not related to gender of the employees.

46. According to Article 15 titled “Guarantees of Gender Equality in Economic and Social Relations”, the state guarantees ensuring equal opportunities for men and women for implementing the right of property and engagement in entrepreneurship activity. The state guarantees ensuring equal opportunities for men and women for implementation of the right for social security and in granting targeted social assistance and other social privileges, as well.

47. The Republic of Azerbaijan acceded to ILO’s Convention No. 156 on “Equal Opportunities and Equal Treatment for Men and Women Workers — Workers with Family Responsibilities” in 2010. The Convention is about men and women workers having children and other close relatives under their patronage and implementing family responsibilities.

48. Thus for the implementation of the Convention provisions relevant measures are taken for ensuring the right of free choice of labour as well as the rights in employment and social security for the workers having family responsibilities by taking into consideration their needs.

49. Furthermore, the Republic of Azerbaijan acceded to the No. 183 Convention concerning the revision of the Maternity Protection Convention (Revised), 1952, of ILO in 2010. Several amendments made to the Labour Code after the accession and improvement of national legislation in this end continues.
50. In the framework of “State Program for Implementation of the Employment Strategy of the Republic of Azerbaijan (2011-2015)”, measures on strengthening control on employment of citizens being in need of special social protection, in companies, offices and organizations regarding which a quota was established for ensuring gender equality in employment as well as on increasing women’s competitiveness in the labour market, supporting women’s entrepreneurship activity, ensuring increase of professional skills and further training of women seeking job and other measures are taken regarding the ways for solution of problems in the field of women employment.

51. In response to the recommendation stated under paragraph 5 of the concluding observation on implementation of the action plan on family and women’s issues 2009-2012, it must be stressed that the action plan is implemented as being integral part of the National Action Programme approved by the Presidential Decree on 27 December 2011.

52. In accordance with the 2.13 paragraph of the Programme improvement of the competitiveness of women in labour market, organization of the trainings aimed at mastering women for new jobs, and also in accordance with the 2.15 paragraph of the Programme intensifying the fight against violence against women, including domestic violence, ensuring legal remedies, compensations, rehabilitation, medical and physiological supports to those victims were delegated to the The State Committee for Family, Women and Children Affairs.

53. Moreover, orders were given for the preparation of the Development Conception “Azerbaijan 2020: Look into the future”. The need for such conception is derived from the country’s entrance into new level of development. The main objective of the conception is considering the existing resources and capabilities to achieve permanent economical growth and high social welfare, effective state administration and rule of law, ensuring the protection of people’s rights and freedoms and civil society’s active participation in public life. Paragraph 7.4 of the conception stated: Ensuring gender equality and family development will be prioritized and relevant measures will be taken in this regard. The main prerogatives of state policy to this end will comprise preventing gender related violence cases, ensuring equal opportunities for women and men in labour market, improving potential for women on promotion at work. Strengthening social protection of mothers and children, in accordance with the ILO Workers with Family Responsibilities Convention, facilitating child care for women, increasing the number of kindergartens, and also family planning centers will be supported. At the same time institution of “Family Psychologist”, rehabilitation center for victims of domestic violence and also monitoring system for violence, evasion from education and early marriages will be set up.

54. In response to the recommendation stated under paragraph 5 of the concluding observation on elimination of violence against women, it must be stressed that taking into account the best practice of foreign countries, the special law was adopted on Combating Domestic Violence in 2010. The definition of domestic violence which had not been previously identified in the legislation, measures for its prevention and other issues thus have been regulated at the statute level. In accordance with the law, institutions such as security warrant and a shelter were established. Security warrant of short-term (30 days) and long term (30 to 180 days) is a prohibition act which is applicable to actions committed against the victim. The law stipulates that one of the measures related to the prevention of domestic violence is to provide a shelter to a victim in an assistance center.

55. According to the law, activities aimed at preventing domestic violence comprise legal, social and precautionary measures. Legal measures include investigation of cases of domestic violence, a decision-making process and the implementation, criminal proceedings against persons who have committed these acts and a legal protection of victims etc. Social measures cover victims’ social protection, education, medical assistance, employment, psychological rehabilitation and other issues. Preventive measures include educational activities.

The competition was launched in the form of social order by the Ministry of Labour and Social Protection of Population for implementation of pilot project for social rehabilitation of children subjected to domestic violence in Sumgayit city and surrounding settlements and specialized non-governmental organizations were involved in the project. Rendering social-psychological services to children and women subjected to domestic violence, legal assistance, informing families and other measures are planned to be taken within the framework of the project.

For instance, the State Committee for Family, Women and Children Affairs conducted lectures on domestic violence and its reasons in the several regions (Neftchala, Lankaran, Kurdamir) jointly with Gender Equality and Women Initiatives Public Union in 2009. In order to improve coordination among state organs dealing with daily life violence, and to enhance cooperation with respective international bodies, the State Committee for Family, Women and Children Affairs jointly with the Office of OSCE in Baku organized conference titled “Prevention of Domestic Violence: informing public and supporting legislative initiatives” on 25 November, 2009. Members of parliament, state officials, and representatives of international and non-governmental organizations participated in the conference.

67. Regarding the protection mechanisms for the prevention of the domestic violence it should be noted that official investigation is carried out regarding each fact of crime on domestic violence and the measures taken by district police staff for prevention of such kinds of crimes are legally assessed. According to the United Nations report “World’s Women 2010: Trends and Statistics” only 13% of the women faced with physical violence (at least once in her lifetime) in the Republic of Azerbaijan. 81. Equal opportunities in terms of legislation were created both for men and women. Admission to the judicial system and for civil service is conducted via competitive examinations. However, majority of women abstain from representation to the political positions and to the positions as “judge” which entails high responsibility and skills. Concerning this issue the State Committee for Family, Women and Children Affairs submitted its recommendations to the President of the Republic of Azerbaijan. The concern for the low level of participation of women in Parliament, government, diplomatic services, municipalities, and judicial system was expressed.

83. Meanwhile, the informative campaign conducted in the regions during the elections for municipalities in 2009 can be considered as positive example. Thus, at the consequence of the campaign the percentage of the women members of municipalities was increased from 4% (2004) to 26.5%. Currently 302 out of 4137 heads of municipal organs are women.

84. Although the representation of the women in the judicial system is not too high, the raise in the recent years can be observed. According to the last reports of the Ministry of

90. One of the reasons for the low participation of women in the social, political and public life of the country is the traditional stereotypes relating women’s role in society mainly with family. The condition entails new approach to the national gender strategy. Being aware of the problem the Government uses all possible tools in order to provide equal opportunities to man and women and to create condition where woman can exercise their full potential. Therefore, the Government primarily pays attention to the qualities education which abolishes gender stereotypes for the purpose of elimination of segregation in the workplace and differences of specialization and also ensuring full exercise of skills.

Article 12

185. According to the constitution of Republic of Azerbaijan everybody can act freely, choose habitation, and go outside from the Republic of Azerbaijan as based on law.

186. Regarding “propiska” practice stated in 18th paragraph of the Concluding Remarks, it is notified that it was one of the remainders of the Soviet times and was liquidated after the collapse of the Soviet Union. At present the constitution of Republic of Azerbaijan ensures the rights of all citizens as well as internally displaced persons regarding the right as choosing habitation freely and the right to life.

187. There is not any kind of legal instrument or legal provision in the legislation of Republic that requires settling in only permitted places for internally displaced persons.

188. The Article 5 (providing internally displaced people with living areas) of the “Law on social protection regarding internally displaced people and the persons that same with them” of Republic of Azerbaijan states that in order to temporarily settling of internally displaced persons, residential areas that are suitable and the ones that can be made suitable, administrative and auxiliary buildings as well as other buildings are being used. Article 10 of the “Law on status of refugees and internally displaced people” requires that in order to give the status of “internally displaced” the people (internally displaced) must temporarily register in executive power* of the region (city) in the territory of the Republic but it does not restrict migration from one region (city) to another within the country. There are not cases that create artificial problems to migration and temporary registration of internally displaced persons. As the internally displaced people are also citizens of Republic of Azerbaijan they also have rights and duties that stated in national legislation and constitution but bearing in mind their special status and social situation, additional concessions and privileges are considered in legislation. Internally displaced persons make use of the concessions and privileges stated in legislation not only in their temporary registration addresses and also in their factual places of habitation. Internally displaced people make use of concessions regarding utility services not according to their temporary registration address but in their factual living address.

191. There is not any restrictive Article in the legislation regarding the possibility of buying property (real and movable) for internally displaced people with their own funds so as other citizens of the republic they can also obtain property with their own funds in any area of the country. Even they are free from state fee for the apartment bought and payment of utility services for that apartment. Buying places of residence with their own funds by internally displaced people does not result with losing of their status.

192. The biggest obstacle of application of Article 12 of the Covenant is the occupation of territory of Azerbaijan by Armenia. As a result of occupation, citizens of Republic of Azerbaijan and the people that came and got permission to live in Republic of Azerbaijan in accordance with law cannot make use of their rights such as free motion and freely choosing of habitat fully.

Administrative actions were taken against the chief employees of the company named above.

This selection procedure which consists of various exams, interviews, long-term judge preparation courses and internships for candidates are arranged by independent organization which board members are composed of mainly judges— Judges Selection Committee. Article 16

Article 18

257. Like all modern democratic states Azerbaijan Republic tries to protect freedom of thought, speech and religion in daily life. All efforts in this area as the essential element of the life are the center point of the Azerbaijan Republic Government’s attention. Our state supports all the efforts on protecting freedom of religion in the state and the world.
258. The policy of Government Azerbaijan Republic applied in the religion sphere, the decisions and the measures taken in the area of providing the freedom of belief of citizens give the results. At the moment religious life in Azerbaijan is constant, the standards of the religious tolerance is high, international conferences and meetings on religion are held and there is no room for religious discrimination among citizens. State agencies protect all the citizen rights, including the rights of the religious communities. Friendly environment is established among the members of different religions in the society.

259. As the result of the referendum of 18 March, 2009 the amendments have been made to the Article 48 of Constitution which stipulates that nobody can be forced to demonstrate his or her religion, to carry out a religious ceremony and to attend a religious ceremony.

260. By the amendments to “Law on the Freedom of Belief” on the 8 May, 2009, the right to believe in any religion individually and with others, to express one’s opinion about any religion and to share them have been established for everybody. The freedom of belief can be restricted for the public security, to provide public stability, health, morality and the rights and freedoms of others only needed and only with the conditions considered in law.

261. The policy of Government of Azerbaijan Republic applied in the religion sphere has been founded upon the freedom of thought, speech and belief considering the presence of the different forms of religion in the society. Meantime, the state’s policy on religious area is based on the principles and norms of international law, the international agreements that Azerbaijan is a party, the Constitution of Azerbaijan Republic and other regulatory and legal acts.

262. The state registration of the religious committees is implemented under the requirements of “Law on the Freedom of Belief” of Azerbaijan Republic and the procedure is simple enough. According to Article 12 of the law, all religious organizations can operate after being registered and included into the state registry.

263. At least 50 adults and their authorized representatives have to apply for registering a religious community to an appropriate religious center or institution by introducing application including protocol about establishment and a charter. List of founders, their citizenship, habitation, date of birth and copies of their identity cards, principles of the given religious community, date of establishment, traditions, forms and methods of this community, attitudes to a family, marriage and education, information about restrictions to rights and duties of community members, as well as other documents from “State Registration and State Register of Legal Entities” Law of the Azerbaijan Republic should be added to the application.

264. Religious community can get the status of a legal entity by passing the state registration and this can prevent with the help of government misunderstandings and problems which can occur by the future activity of the respective community.

265. As it is noted in item 13 of a final review regarding the necessity for religious communities to get approval from Caucasian Muslim Board (CMB) and concrete criteria of this process, it should be noted that CMB regulates the appointment process of clergies. The main criteria for CMB are the attitude to rules and relation to Islam of the religious community and this define the presentation of this community by CMB. If CMB doesn’t give a submission for the establishment of a religious community, that religious community has the right to appeal to the court.

266. Legal status of CMB is determined by Articles 7 and 9 of “Freedom of religion” Law of the Azerbaijan Republic. According to the requirements of the law Islamic religious communities in the Azerbaijan Republic can connect at the Historic Islamic Centers—CMB. They are subordinate to the CMB on organizational issues and submit reports on their activities. It is a tradition and history has been proved over the past years.
267. In response to observation regarding the right to teach religion by a person if he or she has graduated in abroad contained in paragraph 13 of the Committee’s concluding observations, we note that according to the surveys, there is clear indication that several in compliances are existed with respect to citizens who have studied religion abroad. Thus, education provided by several religious educational institutions abroad is contrary to tolerance and traditional religious views in Azerbaijan. In some cases, education period of the students have been extended for a few years. A citizen who filled with principles of certain religious is sent to Azerbaijan after 10-12 years. Considering such existing realities, a provision on rites and rituals pertaining to Islam should be carried out by citizens of the Republic of Azerbaijan who have studied in Azerbaijan as stipulated in Article 21 of the State Law on Right to Freedom of Thought.

268. The Committee recommended in paragraph 14 of its concluding Observations that legal provision regulates the status of conscientious objectors to military service did not existed. With regard to this point, we note that according to Article 76, paragraph 2 of the Constitution of the Republic of Azerbaijan if it is contrary to the beliefs of citizens for them to perform active military service, in cases prescribed by law they shall be permitted to perform alternative civilian service. However, respective legislative act on alternative civilian service has not been adopted so far, citizens of the Republic of Azerbaijan who want to choose alternative civilian service are evolved into military service.

269. In general, the number of citizens who refuse to join to army based on their religion is quite less (there are 4 cases so far). In this respect, in accordance with established practice in Armed Forces, any member of Military Personnel who refuses to take the enlistment oath or bear in arm based on his beliefs appoints to a position not related to arms or military equipment within the Military Unit.

Article 19

270. Media workers on the basis of their activity in the Republic of Azerbaijan do not undergo prosecution as well as physical and legal violence. Therefore, in accordance with national legislation, mass media as well as Internet is free. Misconduct of these freedoms, in particular using mass media to print false and malicious publications for the purpose of defaming a person, made statements deliberately humiliate honour and dignity of a person, libel and slander, or any acts against legal order are prohibited.

271. It should be noted that no media worker was convicted under Article 147 (Libel and slander) and Article 148 (Defamation) of Criminal Code in 2011. In 2012, the Court convicted only one person under Article 147 to pay pecuniary sum. Nevertheless, it should be emphasized that the Criminal legislations of most of European countries contain provisions on criminal liability for defamation.

272. Azerbaijan requested Venice Commission to assist in drafting law on defamation and together with the experts of the Venice Commission drafting process was launched in 2012. The Venice Commission delegation visited Azerbaijan and attended meetings in order to draft law in April 2013. It is considered in the draft to implement principles determined European Court of Human Rights practice in trials related to defamation.

273. Meanwhile it should be considered that the Commissioner for Human Rights (Ombudsperson) supervises state authorities, local self-government bodies and officials possess information to fulfill obligations arise from Law on access to information.

274. It is notified that in accordance with legislation any permission to establish publications is not required for State authorities. Ministry of Justice makes simplified registration of publications and the number of publications registered in Ministry of Justice is more than 4,800. Application form and admission for registration of publications have been included in the list of electronic services by Ministry of Justice.

275. In accordance with Presidential Decree on providing Freedom of Speech dated 31 July 2008 confirmed Conception on State Support to Mass Media. The State Fund for the Support of Mass Media Development under the President of the Republic of Azerbaijan was created according to Presidential Order dated 3 April 2009. Financial support was provided to mass media in conformity with Presidential Decree dated 21 July 2010. Presidential Decrees on strengthening social welfare of media workers respectively dated 22 July 2010 and 22 July 2013 were signed. Pursuant to amendments made to Law on Television and Radio Broadcasting in 2009, broadcasting of foreign television and radio channels via satellite in Azerbaijan is permitted if it is necessary.

276. With regard to criminal suits against journalists it is noted that media workers are not subjected to prosecution in respect to their activities. Individuals, which considered being suspicious to commit certain type of crime, are liable for committing a crime on grounds prescribed by law. It this case the principle of equality before law is taken into consideration without distinction of their position and other status.

277. The Council of State Support to Non-Governmental Organizations under the President of the Republic of Azerbaijan funded dozens of projects towards to promotion of freedom of expression from 2008 to 2013. More than 150,000 AZN was spent in order to promote freedom of expression during these years.

278. The Plenum of the Supreme Court of the Republic of Azerbaijan adopted the decision on the court practice of the consideration of the cases with special persecutions on February 21, 2014.

279. According to the very decision, the analysis of the cases on defamation and slander with special persecution, considered in the courts of the Republic of Azerbaijan during 2012–2013, indicates that 249 complaint communications against 401 persons have been lodged during the mentioned period. 44 of the complaint communications (10.9 percent) were against journalists though no journalist has been convicted during the very period. Thus, one journalist was justified, the execution of 10 cases with special persecution was dropped, the execution and court consideration was rejected in relation to 33 out of these cases.

280. The Plenum has emphasized that the precedent law places utmost importance to the freedom of speech for the maintenance of the democratic system.

281. Nevertheless, according to Article 10.2 of the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, freedom of expression may be subject to restrictions for the protection of the reputation or rights of others.

282. The decisions of the European Court of Human Rights have affirmed that the “necessity” for any restriction on freedom of expression must be convincingly established. In the first place the courts must assess whether there is a “pressing social need” for the restriction and, in making their assessment, they enjoy a certain margin of appreciation. In consideration of cases on the freedom of press, the national margin of appreciation is circumscribed by the interest of democratic society in ensuring and maintaining a free press. Similarly, that interest will weigh heavily in the balance in determining, as must be done under paragraph 2 of Article 10, whether the restriction was proportionate to the legitimate aim pursued (see, para. 45 of case of Fressoz and Roire v. France).

283. The European Court has also mentioned that public-watchdog role of the press is a vital element in the democratic society (see para. 39, case of Goodwin v. The United Kingdom, 27 March 1996). Its duty is to impart — in a manner consistent with its obligations and responsibilities — information and ideas on all matters of public interest
284. The Plenum has further explained that in accordance with the precedent law of the European Court a careful distinction needs to be made between facts and value judgments expressed in the information disseminated by the person charged with special persecution. The existence of facts can be demonstrated, whereas the truth of value judgments is not susceptible of proof. As regards value-judgments this requirement is impossible of fulfillment and it infringes freedom of opinion itself, which is a fundamental part of the right secured by Article 10 (art. 10) of the Convention (see para. 42, case of de Haas and Gijssels v. Belgium and para. 46 of case of Lingens v. Austria). Meanwhile, it is difficult to define the difference between the facts and the judgments, when the pretensions are about the behavior of the third party. Since even a value judgment without any factual basis to support it may be excessive (see para. 43, case of Jerusalem v. Austria).

285. The Plenum of the Supreme Court has recommended to the courts to give a careful consideration to the cases with special persecution to differentiate between whether the information is a slander or defamation or whether it is an intervention to the private or public life or political activity of the special persecutor. It should be taken into consideration that according to the precedent law of the European Court, the “duties and responsibilities” inherent in the exercise of the freedom of expression, the safeguard afforded by Article 10 to journalists in relation to reporting on issues of general interest is subject to the proviso that they are acting in good faith in order to provide accurate and reliable information in accordance with the ethics of journalism (see along with other sources para. 37 of case Radio France and Others v. France, para. 65 of the above mentioned Colombani case).

286. While it is the duty of the press to warn the public about the crimes allegedly committed by elected representatives or officials, the direct accusation of certain people by mentioning their names and positions, obliges journalists to present sufficient factual basis of the accusations (see, case of Lesnik v. Slovakia).

287. Also the court have been recommended to take into consideration the specificity and public dangerousness of the crime, the conditions specifying the personality of the accused person, mitigating or aggravating conditions of the crime, the importance of freedom of expression for the democratic society as well as the relevant precedent law of the European Court while deciding on punishments about the convicted on slander and defamation.

288. The European Court has emphasized that while deciding on the appropriateness of the intervention to the freedom of expression protected by Article 10 of the Convention, the character and seriousness of the punishments are “must” elements to be taken into consideration (see along with other sources para. 37, case of Ceylan v. Turkey and paras. 41–42, case Skalka v. Poland).

289. Although State parties to the European Convention allow restrictions on the exercise of freedom of expression for the provision of relevant legal protection of reputation of a person and even in accordance with Article 8 of the Convention they are obliged to the realization of such measures in line with positive obligation in the very sphere (see para. 35 case of Pfeifer v. Austria and para. 57 case of Von Hannover v. Germany), this should not be done in a manner leading to the restrain the mass media to promptly inform the public on evident or alleged law breaches.

290. The European Court has mentioned that although sentencing is in principle a matter for the national courts, the imposition of a prison sentence for a press offence in exceptional circumstances may be compatible with journalists’ freedom of expression as guaranteed by Article 10 of the Convention (see para. 115, case Cumpana and Mazare v. Romania).
291. The recommendations to national courts on the guarantee of the freedom of expression reflected in the decision of the Plenum of the Supreme Court are in line with the precedent law of the European Court.

292. Besides, the Plenum of the Supreme Court of the Republic of Azerbaijan adopted a decision on “Proposals on amendments to the Criminal Code to be submitted to Milli Mejlis of the Republic of Azerbaijan in line with the right of legislative initiative” on February 21, 2014.

293. The Plenum has mentioned that according to the precedent law of the European Court although sentencing is in principle a matter for the national courts, the imposition of a prison sentence for a press offence will be compatible with journalists’ freedom of expression as guaranteed by Article 10 of the Convention only in exceptional circumstances, notably where other fundamental rights have been seriously impaired, as, for example, in the case of hate speech or incitement to violence (see para. 115, case Cumpana and Mazare v. Romania).

294. The sanctions parts of Articles 147.1 and 148 of the Criminal Code of the Republic of Azerbaijan stipulate along with other punishments the deprivation of liberty for the offences of slander and defamation.

295. The Plenum, guided by the position of the European Court on preference to punishments not related to deprivation of liberty for offences of slander and defamation and considering the punishment of fine to be most expedient for the crimes of slander and defamation, found important to submit proposals to Milli Mejlis on relevant amendments to the very Article of the Criminal Code in line with the right of legislative initiative.

296. Besides, according to the Plenum, norms on responsibility for slander and defamation propagating hostility or violence on racial, national, religious or any public affiliation grounds, must be added to the criminal legislation and the draft law reflecting the above mentioned must be submitted to Milli Mejlis in line with the right of legislative initiative.

297. Hence, the Plenum of the Supreme Court decided on submission of proposals to Milli Mejlis on amendments to the Criminal Code of the Republic of Azerbaijan in line with the right of legislative initiative.

298. Meanwhile, during 2009–2013, 15 million manats was allotted to the provision of freedom of expression and 30 million manats to the strengthening of social protection of journalists from the state budget through the State Support Fund for Mass Media under the auspices of the President of the Republic of Azerbaijan.

303. We note that respective amendments were made to Law on Freedom to Peaceful Assembly adopted in 13 November 1998, in line with Venice Commission’s opinions. In its final opinion, Venice Commission noted that considering amendments and additions, Law on Freedom to Peaceful Assembly met European standards.

304. Main principles and rules on implementation of freedom to peaceful assembly are determined in Law on Freedom to Peaceful Assembly. Therefore, respective provisions of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and the principles set out in case law of the European Court of Human Rights.

305. Any facts related to State Authorities’ intervention to peaceful assembly organized and held only peacefully have not been discovered.

306. 307. Administrative reproach and other disciplinary measures implemented towards to individuals who take part in illegally organized protests were enforced in line with requirements and recommendations of the legislation of the Republic of Azerbaijan and international treaties. Ministry of Internal Affairs accesses whether police use of force was proportional in response to protester violence in accordance with internal rules. If excessive use of force appears, administrative measures were taken against such police officers. Office of Public Prosecutor held analogical investigations on the basis of procession legislation.

308. During past years organizers of assembly have tried to notify government authorities of incorrect information about place of assembly. 313. Nowadays most of state programs (National Program for Action to Raise Effectiveness of the Protection of Human Rights and Freedoms in the Republic of Azerbaijan) cover cooperation with NGOs, achieve NGOs’ participation in state projects, and public supervision.
