How many demobilized paramilitaries have received pardons under Decree No. 128 of 2003, article 13, and what arrangements have been made to avoid granting pardons to persons guilty of serious violations of human rights? What strategy is in place to ensure that gross systematic violations by demobilized individuals not currently involved in justice and peace proceedings do not go unpunished? 4. Please provide information on the work of the National Commission on Reparation and Reconciliation, established by the Justice and Peace Act (Act No. 975, arts. 50–51), and on the steps taken with respect to the regional commissions and the establishment of a regional support network for victims. 11. The Committee notes with concern the high frequency of extrajudicial executions of civilians who, as the State party acknowledges (para. 260), are reported by the security forces as “killed in combat”. It is also concerned at reports that financial incentives are used to encourage soldiers to report deaths in combat. Please give the number of allegations of extrajudicial executions between 2004 and 2009 and provide up-to-date information on investigations of members of the security forces in connection with such acts (progress and results of investigations, status of proceedings, number of cases closed, any judicial decisions); please also provide information on any corrective measures taken and measures to make reparation and prevent any recurrence of this practice.

With reference to the early warning system (SAT) mentioned in the State party’s report (para. 379), please indicate how many risk reports have been published, how many of those have led to early warnings, and how many of those situations involved serious human rights violations in the context of the armed conflict. Please clarify the role of the civil authorities, including at the departmental and local levels, in devising preventive measures. Please indicate whether SAT is considered to have all the financial, human and material resources it needs to carry out its work efficiently and sustainably.

17. The Committee notes the absence of any quantitative data on article 7 of the Covenant in the State party’s report. Please provide information for the period 2004–2009 concerning:

Freedom of conscience (art. 18)

24. With reference to its recommendation issued in 2004 (CCPR/CO/80/COL, para. 17), the Committee regrets the lack of information in the State party’s report on the steps taken to guarantee that conscientious objectors are able to opt for alternative service whose duration would not have punitive effects.
