I Introduction

Submitting Party

1. Lawyers for Lawyers (L4L) is an independent Netherlands foundation, funded by lawyers’ donations. The foundation was established in 1986 and has special consultative status with ECOSOC since 2013.¹

2. L4L promotes the proper functioning of the rule of law through a free and independent exercise of the legal profession, in conformity with international law, including but not limited to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR) and the Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers of the United Nations (Basic Principles).² We support lawyers across the world who are threatened or suppressed as a result of discharging their professional functions and we promote the proper role of lawyers.³

3. On 26 April 2016, the Human Rights Committee ('the Committee') adopted a List of Issues in relation to the fourth period report of Azerbaijan,⁴ in response to which Azerbaijan submitted a reply.⁵ In advance to the adoption of the List of Issues on Azerbaijan, Lawyers for Lawyers submitted a thematic report to the Committee on the implementation of article 14 of the Covenant by Azerbaijan and the position of lawyers in Azerbaijan in particular, which is attached as Annex 1 to this submission.

4. During its 118th session, from 17 October to 4 November 2016, the Committee will consider the second report submitted by Azerbaijan under article 40 of the Covenant and adopt concluding observations that will assist Azerbaijan in the implementation of the Covenant. In the context of this review, Lawyers for Lawyers wishes to provide a short update to our thematic report submitted before the adoption of the List of Issues.

II Executive Summary

Issues

5. This submission outlines L4L’s key areas of concern about the failure of the Azerbaijani government to comply with its international human rights commitments to guarantee effective access to legal services provided by an independent legal profession as set out in the Basic Principles, which is required to ensure the right to equality before courts and tribunals and to a fair trial, in accordance with Article 14 of the ICCPR, and protect the right to freedom of expression of lawyers, in accordance with article 19 of the ICCPR.

⁵ List of issues in relation to the fourth periodic report of Azerbaijan, Addendum: Replies of Azerbaijan to the list of issues, 9 August 2016, CCPR/C/AZE/Q/4/Add.1
6. In its List of Issues, the Committee requested the Azerbaijani authorities to provide information under article 14 of the ICCPR, on the situation of lawyers in Azerbaijan and the safeguards and measures taken by the Azerbaijani authorities to guarantee the independence of the legal profession and to protect lawyers against any form of improper interference, including threats and violence. The Azerbaijani authorities have responded to this request by stating that allegations in the List of Issues are not valid and that it is impossible to clarify and comment on some issues in the List of Issue due to a lack of concrete data. Furthermore, to the majority of questions on the situation of lawyers the Azerbaijani authorities did not provide an answer at all.

7. The Azerbaijani authorities have not adequately responded on the Committee’s questions in the List of Issues. Therefore, Lawyers for Lawyers remains gravely concerned about the situation of lawyers in Azerbaijan, as set out in our submission on the List of Issues. Furthermore, since submitting our report for the adoption of the List of Issues, new cases of interference in the work of lawyers have been brought to the attention of Lawyers for Lawyers as described below. We call on the Committee to ask the Azerbaijani authorities to provide adequate answers to the questions listed in the List of Issues and make the following recommendations:

Recommendations

8. Azerbaijan should take measures to prevent the harassment of lawyers and attempts to impede or interfere on improper grounds with their defence of clients, in accordance with Article 14 of the Covenant and articles 16 and 18 of the Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers.

9. Azerbaijan should recognize and respect that all communications and consultations between lawyers and their clients within their professional relationship are confidential in accordance with article 14 of the Covenant and article 22 of the Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers and not force lawyers to act as a witness in cases in which they represent their clients.

10. Azerbaijan should take all necessary measures to prevent that lawyers suffer or be threatened with prosecution, disciplinary action or other sanctions on improper grounds, in accordance with article 14 of the Covenant and article 16 of the Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers.

11. Azerbaijan should take measures to guarantee the effective protection of the right of freedom of expression of lawyers as set out in article 19 of the ICCPR and Basic Principle 23, in particular their right to take part in public discussion of matters concerning the law, the administration of justice and the promotion and protection of human rights, without suffering professional restrictions by reason of their lawful action.

12. Azerbaijan should refrain from improper interference with the Bar Association of Azerbaijan (BAA), also known as the Collegium of Advocates, preventing it from being an independent institution capable of protecting the interests of the legal profession in Azerbaijan.

III Substantive Part - The implementation of article 14 of the Covenant by Azerbaijan

A. Effective Mechanisms for the Protection of Human Rights

13. The adequate protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms requires that every citizen has effective access to justice and legal assistance. Legal assistance can only be provided effectively in a judicial system where lawyers, along with judges and prosecutors, are able to carry out their professional activities independently. This follows from – amongst other international instruments - the ICCPR.

14. Interference in the work of lawyers may lead to violations of the right to a fair trial under Article 14 of the Covenant, as has been recognized by the Committee.\(^6\) In particular, the Committee has stated that ‘lawyers should be able to advise and to represent persons charged with a criminal offence in accordance with generally recognized professional ethics without restrictions, influence, pressure or undue interference from any quarter’.\(^7\) Lawyers should also be able to ‘meet their clients in private and to communicate with the accused in conditions that fully respect the confidentiality of their communications’.\(^8\)

15. The right to a fair trial also entails the principle of equality of arms. In view of the Committee, this means that ‘the same procedural rights are to be provided to all the parties unless distinctions are based on law and can be justified on objective and reasonable grounds, not entailing actual disadvantage or other unfairness to the defendant’.\(^9\)

16. In its task of promoting and ensuring the proper role of lawyers, the government of Azerbaijan should respect and take into account the Basic Principles within the framework of its national legislation and practice.\(^10\) Adherence to the Basic Principles is considered a fundamental pre-condition to fulfilling the requirement that all persons have effective access to independent legal assistance.\(^11\)

17. Professional associations of lawyers also have a vital role to play in upholding professional standards and ethics and protecting their members from persecution and improper restrictions and infringements.\(^12\) The Bar Association of Azerbaijan (BAA) should exercise its functions without external interference and cooperate with the government of Azerbaijan to ensure – amongst others – that lawyers are able, without improper interference, to counsel and assist their clients.\textsuperscript{13}

18. In its concluding observations of 13 August 2009, the Human Rights Committee expressed concerns at reports indicating that, despite the reforms undertaken, the judiciary did not appear to be fully independent from the executive branch or from political pressure.\textsuperscript{14} The human Rights Committee urged the government of Azerbaijan to strengthen its efforts to ensure a fully independent judiciary, and to increase efforts to combat corruption, in particular within its judiciary, by investigating promptly and thoroughly all incidents of suspected corruption.\textsuperscript{15}

19. In December 2015, Lawyers for Lawyers submitted a report for the adoption of the List of Issues on Azerbaijan. In this report, we outlined information indicating that in practice, the Azerbaijani authorities do not always uphold the necessary guarantees for the proper functioning of the legal profession in practice. Lawyers are regularly subject to improper interference, attempts to put pressure on them, including by judges and public prosecutors or disciplinary actions on improper grounds. Some lawyers are even subjected to criminal proceedings, in connection to their legitimate professional activities. Furthermore, public prosecutors still play a dominant role in legal proceedings. The prosecution calls lawyers as witnesses in the cases against their clients. As a result, lawyers are not in an equal position to represent their clients. This violates the right to a fair trial as set out in article 14 of the Covenant.

20. In its List of Issues, the Committee asked the Azerbaijani authorities to comment on reports of ‘politically motivated trials, under false charges, including “hooliganism”, “drug possession”, “treason” or “economic crimes” particularly targeting human rights defenders, journalists, staff of non-governmental organizations (NGOs), members of the opposition and lawyers’.\textsuperscript{16} Furthermore, the Committee asked asked the Azerbaijani authorities to comment on reports that ‘the defence is frequently provided with insufficient information, and comment on reports of recurrent violations of the equal status principle for prosecutors and defence lawyers by judges. In view of persistent reports of lawyers representing victims of torture, human rights defenders or any other cases that are reported to be politically motivated, being disbarred or threatened with disbarment or being subjected to criminal proceedings, please provide detailed information on the introduction of any safeguards to prevent such occurrences, ensure the full independence of lawyers and protect them from retaliation. Please also provide information on the measures taken to protect lawyers from all forms of violence, including from police violence. Please further indicate the measures taken to eliminate the frequent practice of summoning lawyers as witnesses in the cases they are representing as a way of removing them from the case for alleged conflict of interest.\textsuperscript{17}

21. In their reply to the List of Issues, the Azerbaijani authorities commented that ‘allegations about politically motivated judicial proceedings are not valid. It should be noted that in Azerbaijan only persons suspected in committing a concrete crime are brought to liability and principle of equality of all before the law is always observed irrespective of an origin, property and official status, beliefs, belonging to political parties, labor unions and other public associations, as well as other circumstances’.\textsuperscript{18} Furthermore, the authorities stated that ‘allegations about violation by judges of the principle of equality between prosecutors and lawyers, defiance by representatives of legislative, executive and judicial authorities of the right to the presumption of innocence are reflected in the List of Issues of the UN Human Rights Committee, but any concrete data have not been presented on this matter. This in turn makes impossible to clarify and comment this issue’.\textsuperscript{19}

22. The Azerbaijani authorities have not provided any comments in their reply to the List of Issues, on any safeguards to prevent that lawyers who represent victims of torture, human rights defenders or any other cases that are reported to be politically motivated, are being disbarred or threatened with disbarment or subjected to criminal proceedings. Furthermore, no information was provided on the measures taken to protect lawyers from all forms of violence, including from police violence, or the measures taken to eliminate the frequent practice of summoning lawyers as witnesses in the cases they are representing as a way of removing them from the case for alleged conflict of interest. They furthermore failed to comment on the question any safeguards taken to ensure the full independence of lawyers and protect them from retaliation.

23. The Azerbaijani authorities have not adequately responded on the Committee’s questions in the List of Issues. Therefore, Lawyers for Lawyers remains gravely concerned about the situation of lawyers in Azerbaijan, as set out in our submission on the List of Issues. We call on the Committee to ask the Azerbaijani authorities to provide adequate answers to the questions listed in the List of Issues. Furthermore, since submitting our report for the adoption of the List of Issues, new cases of interference in the work of lawyers have been brought to the attention of Lawyers for Lawyers as described below. As a consequence, lawyers encounter difficulties in carrying out their profession independently, immediately impacting the right to effective legal representation as enshrined in Article 14 of the Covenant.

B No effective guarantees for the functioning of lawyers – new cases since December 2015.

24. As set out in our submission on the List of Issues, L4L has been informed that several lawyers in Azerbaijan have been disbarred, or are facing disbarment or other disciplinary actions on improper grounds. Since December 2015, new cases of disbarment on improper grounds have been brought to L4L’s attention:

Muzaffar Bakhishov
Lawyer Muzaffar Bakhishov is facing disbarment in connection to critical statements he made about the functioning of the Azeri judiciary. According to the information received, the proceedings against Mr Bakhishov, following a recommendation for disbarment by the Plenum of the Bar Association, are related to critical statements he made in a media interview with the news website moderator.az on the functioning of the Azeri judiciary with regard to judicial review of detention. In the interview, he criticized the arrests of large number of persons by officers of the Ministry of National Security and the tendency of judges to approve orders of detention without proper scrutiny. He further raised concerns about lack of accountability of judges for failure to protect against arbitrary detention.20

25. Lawyers, like any other individuals, have the right to freedom of expression. In particular, they have the right to take part in public discussion of matters concerning the law, the administration of justice and the promotion and protection of human rights.21 This right is guaranteed under article 19 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights. The case of Muzaffar Bakhishov therefore constitutes not only a violation of article 14 ICCPR, but also of article 19 ICCPR.22

26. As described in our submission on the List of Issues, lawyers are also subjected to criminal proceedings. Lawyer Intigam Aliyev, head of the organization ‘Legal Education Society’ was sentenced to seven and-a-half year imprisonment on April 22, 2015, by the Baku Grave Crimes Court, on charges of “tax evasion”, “abuse of authority”, “illegal entrepreneurship”, and “appropriation”. Aliyev denied all the charges and stated they are politically motivated. Since submitting our submission on the List of Issues, there have been new developments in the case of Intigam Aliyev. On 28 March 2016, the Supreme Court of Baku converted Intigam Aliyev’s seven-and-a-half year prison sentence to a five-year suspended term. He is still under a travel ban.

27. In its List of Issues, the Committee requested to Azerbaijani authorities to ‘respond to reports that leaders of NGOs face threats and harassment by the authorities, including raids, confiscations and travel bans’.23 The Azerbaijani authorities have not provided a detailed answer to this question. In connection to this, Lawyers for Lawyers welcomes the release of Intigam Aliyev, but would like to emphasize that, for him to continue his work, it is of fundamental importance that the travel ban against him is lifted, and that all the criminal charges against him, if connected to his human rights work, are dropped.

IV Conclusions and recommendations

28. The Azerbaijani authorities do not always uphold the necessary guarantees for the proper functioning of the legal profession in practice. Lawyers are regularly subject to improper interference, attempts to put pressure on them, including by judges and public prosecutors or disciplinary actions on improper grounds. Some lawyers are even subjected to criminal proceedings, in connection to their legitimate professional activities. Furthermore, public prosecutors still play a dominant role in legal proceedings. The prosecution calls lawyers as witnesses in the cases against their clients. As a result, lawyers are not in an equal position to represent their clients. This violates the right to a fair trial as set out in article 14 of the Covenant.

Recommendations

29. Azerbaijan should take measures to prevent the harassment of lawyers and attempts to impede or interfere on improper grounds with their defence of clients, in accordance with Article 14 of the Covenant and articles 16 and 18 of the Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers.

30. Azerbaijan should recognize and respect that all communications and consultations between lawyers and their clients within their professional relationship are confidential in accordance with article 14 of the Covenant and article 22 of the Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers and not force lawyers to act as a witness in cases in which they represent their clients.

31. Azerbaijan should take all necessary measures to prevent that lawyers suffer or be threatened with prosecution, disciplinary action or other sanctions on improper grounds, in accordance with article 14 of the Covenant and article 16 of the Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers.

32. Azerbaijan should take measures to guarantee the effective protection of the right of freedom of expression of lawyers as set out in article 19 of the ICCPR and Basic Principle 23, in particular their right to take part in public discussion of matters concerning the law, the administration of justice and the promotion and protection of human rights, without suffering professional restrictions by reason of their lawful action.

33. Azerbaijan should refrain from improper interference with the Bar Association of Azerbaijan (BAA), also known as the Collegium of Advocates, preventing it from being an independent institution capable of protecting the interests of the legal profession in Azerbaijan.
ANNEX 1:
Submission on the List of Issues by Lawyers for Lawyers for the Human Rights Committee Consideration of the Periodic Report of Azerbaijan

Amsterdam, 18 December 2015

I   Introduction

Submitting Party

1. Lawyers for Lawyers (L4L) is an independent Netherlands foundation, funded by lawyers’ donations. The foundation was established in 1986 and has special consultative status with ECOSOC since 2013.24

2. L4L promotes the proper functioning of the rule of law through a free and independent exercise of the legal profession, in conformity with international law, including but not limited to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR) and the Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers of the United Nations (Basic Principles).25 We support lawyers across the world who are threatened or suppressed as a result of discharging their professional functions and we promote the proper role of lawyers.26

3. L4L wishes to provide its views to the Human Rights Committee, in advance of the preparation of the list of issues for the Periodic Report of Azerbaijan.

II   Executive Summary

Issues

4. This submission outlines L4L’s key areas of concern about the failure of the Azerbaijani government to comply with its international human rights commitments to:

   1) Guarantee effective access to legal services provided by an independent legal profession as set out in the Basic Principles, which is required to ensure the right to equality before courts and tribunals and to a fair trial, in accordance with Article 14 of the ICCPR, and

   2) Protect the right to freedom of expression of lawyers, in accordance with article 19 of the ICCPR.

5. It highlights, in particular, concerns in relation to the following issues:

   A. No effective guarantees for the functioning of lawyers:

ii. Increasing legal prosecution of and disciplinary proceedings against lawyers on false charges and/or improper grounds (Article 14 ICCPR);\(^{28}\)

iii. Identification of lawyers with their clients or their clients’ causes as a result of discharging their functions.\(^{29}\)

B. No effective protection to the right of freedom of expression of lawyers (Article 19 ICCPR), in particular their right to take part in public discussion of matters concerning the law, the administration of justice and the promotion and protection of human rights, without suffering professional restrictions by reason of their lawful action.\(^{30}\)

C. No proper functioning of the Azerbaijan’s Bar Association (Article 14 ICCPR).\(^{31}\)

Recommendations

6. The Human Rights Committee should address as a matter of priority the lack of effective measures of the government of Azerbaijan to ensure that lawyers are able to carry out their professional functions without threats, harassment or improper interference with their defence of clients, immediately impacting the right to effective legal representation as enshrined in Article 14 of the ICCPR.

7. The Human Rights Committee should address as a matter of priority the lack of effective measures of the government of Azerbaijan to prevent that lawyers suffer or be threatened with prosecution, disciplinary action or other sanctions on improper grounds.

8. The Human Rights Committee should address as a matter of priority the lack of effective protection to the right of freedom of expression of lawyers as set out in article 19 of the ICCPR, in particular their right to take part in public discussion of matters concerning the law, the administration of justice and the promotion and protection of human rights, without suffering professional restrictions by reason of their lawful action.

9. The Human Rights Committee should address as a matter of priority the improper interference of the government of Azerbaijan with the Bar Association of Azerbaijan (BAA), also known as the Collegium of Advocates, preventing it from being an independent institution capable of protecting the interests of the legal profession in Azerbaijan.

III Effective mechanisms for the protection of human rights

10. The adequate protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms requires that every citizen has effective access to justice and legal assistance. Legal assistance can only be provided effectively in a judicial system where lawyers, along with judges and prosecutors, are able to carry out their professional activities independently. This follows from – amongst other international instruments - the ICCPR.

11. In its task of promoting and ensuring the proper role of lawyers, the government of Azerbaijan should respect and take into account the Basic Principles within the framework of its national legislation and practice. Adherence to the Basic Principles is considered a fundamental pre-condition to fulfilling the requirement that all persons have effective access to independent legal assistance.

12. Professional associations of lawyers also have a vital role to play in upholding professional standards and ethics and protecting their members from persecution and improper restrictions and infringements. The Bar Association of Azerbaijan (BAA) should exercise its functions without external interference and cooperate with the government of Azerbaijan to ensure – amongst others – that lawyers are able, without improper interference, to counsel and assist their clients.

13. In its concluding observations of 13 August 2009, the Human Rights Committee expressed concerns at reports indicating that, despite the reforms undertaken, the judiciary did not appear to be fully independent from the executive branch or from political pressure. The human Rights Committee urged the government of Azerbaijan to strengthen its efforts to ensure a fully independent judiciary, and to increase efforts to combat corruption, in particular within its judiciary, by investigating promptly and thoroughly all incidents of suspected corruption.

14. We welcome the fact that during the interactive dialogue in the Universal Periodic Review cycle of 2013, several recommendations with respect to the role of lawyers were accepted by the government of Azerbaijan.38 These recommendations called upon the Azerbaijan government to ensure that lawyers are able to carry out their legitimate activities without fear or threat of reprisal.39

15. Reports gathered by L4L and information received from lawyers in Azerbaijan show that the government of Azerbaijan does not always uphold the necessary guarantees and human rights for the proper functioning of the legal profession in practice. As a consequence, lawyers encounter difficulties in carrying out their profession freely and independently, immediately impacting the rights to effective legal representation and freedom of expression as enshrined in Articles 14 and 19 of the ICCPR.

IV No effective guarantees for the functioning of lawyers

i. Increasing harassment, intimidation and improper restrictions and infringements of lawyers (Article 14)

16. The crackdown on journalists, bloggers, political opponents and human rights defenders in Azerbaijan has escalated over the past years. Many of them have been arrested and convicted on politically motivated charges. L4L has been informed that the lawyers representing these human rights defenders have been regularly threatened, harassed and/or removed from working on these cases by the authorities as a result of discharging their functions.40

17. A number of lawyers, representing journalists, political opponents and human rights defenders have been called as witnesses in their own clients’ cases and subsequently informed that they were removed from these cases. This appears to be a strategy designed to frustrate the client-attorney confidentiality and thus the lawyers’ ability to represent their clients and constitutes a form of improper interference with their legitimate activities as attorneys. Other lawyers have been removed from cases without any reasons communicated to them. This is demonstrated by the following cases:

Cases on harassment
Aslan Ismayilov is a lawyer who has worked on many human rights and politically sensitive cases. In May 2013, he was detained, slapped, and threatened by the police after he had publicly claimed that Rashad Ramazanov, an acquaintance, had been beaten in custody.\textsuperscript{41}

\textbf{Cases on removal of lawyers from cases:}

On 30 July 2014, Leyla Yunus, a prominent human rights defender, was arrested. Two of Leyla Yunus’ lawyers, Javad Javadov and Khalid Bagirov, were both disqualified from representing her after being called as witnesses in the case by the prosecution, on account of their prior professional acquaintance. Javad Javadov was summoned for questioning and named as witness on 29 October 2014, shortly after publicising procedural and fair trial violations in the case against his client. Khalid Bagirov was disqualified from representing Leyla Yunus on 5 November 2014.

Four of the five lawyers representing (lawyer, for more information see below) Intigam Aliyev were, like in the case of Leyla Yunus, barred from representing Aliyev. Fariz Namazli, Alayif Hasanov, Khalid Bagirov and Adil Ismayilov were removed from the case on 30 September 2014, after they were being called as witnesses in the case by the prosecution.

Lawyer Yalcin Imanov represented the employees of “Radio Liberty”. On 28 December 2014, following a decision of the First Deputy General Prosecutor, Yalcin Imanov was held as a witness and therefore excluded from the defense by the prosecution.

\section*{ii. Increasing prosecution of and disciplinary proceedings against lawyers on improper grounds (Article 14)}

18. Governments must protect lawyers from unfair or arbitrary disciplinary proceedings.\textsuperscript{42} Disciplinary action against lawyers must be based solely upon a code of professional conduct which is consistent with recognized ethical and professional standards including the Basic Principles.

19. L4L has been informed that several lawyers in Azerbaijan have been disbarred, or are facing disbarment or other disciplinary actions on improper grounds. This is demonstrated by the following cases:

\textsuperscript{41} See also Human Rights Watch Report: Tightening the Screws Azerbaijan’s Crackdown on Civil Society and Dissent, 2013, ISBN: 978-1-62313-0473, available at: https://www.hrw.org/sites/default/files/reports/azerbaijan0913_FortUpload_0.pdf. This report states: On May 17 Ismayilov organized a press conference to publicize concern about Ramazanov’s treatment in custody. Several hours after the press conference, together with several journalists, Ismayilov went to the Ministry of Interior’s Organized Crime Unit to find out more about Ramazanov’s situation. In front of the Organized Crime Unit, several policemen approached him on the street and asked him to come to the station. Police drove him to the Narimanov district police station where the district police chief politely warned him to be more careful, told him that he was too vocal and too “involved with things that are not your business,” and released him. In the following days Ismayilov continued to publicize his concerns about Ramazanov. On May 30 an investigator with the Organized Crime Unit phoned Ismayilov several times, asking him to come to the station. When Ismayilov arrived, he was taken to the basement, where the investigator threatened Ismayilov that he would be imprisoned if he did not “behave,” and slapped him on the ear. Before releasing Ismayilov at the end of their 30- minute conversation, the investigator warned him, “[I]f you value your life, you’ll be quiet.” Ismayilov immediately filed a complaint with the district prosecutor’s office hotline. A first deputy interior minister received Ismayilov on May 31 and apologized for the incident. However, in a media interview an Interior Ministry official denied the investigator used any violence against Ismayilov.

\textsuperscript{42} This follows from article 16(c) of the Basic Principles in combination with articles 26, 27, 28 and 29 thereof.
Aslan Ismayilov
On 8 May 2013, following a decision of the BAA, Aslan Ismayilov, a prominent lawyer engaged in the pursuit of several cases of human rights violations in Azerbaijan, was disbarred. This decision is allegedly closely connected with critical remarks made by Ismayilov towards the authorities of Azerbaijan and with his legitimate professional activity in defence of human rights.

Khalid Bagirov
On 10 July 2015, the Nizami District Court decided to order the disbarment of lawyer Khalid Bagirov for alleged inappropriate conduct in court.

Khalid Bagirov’s license to practise law was already suspended on 10 December 2014, one day after he agreed to represent journalist Khadija Ismayilova. The Presidium of the Bar Association at that time also filed an application to court to exclude him from the Collegium of Advocates (BAA).

The submission was reportedly based on a complaint issued by the Sheki Court to the Bar Azerbaijan. Khalid Bagirov should have breached professional ethics when he questioned the fairness of a court decision in the case against one of his clients, opposition-leader Ilgar Mammadov. In 2013, Mammadov was sentenced to jail on charges of inciting a riot.

Khalid Bagirov has been involved in a number of key human rights cases concerning prisoners of conscience. His disbarment means that he is no longer entitled to represent his clients in criminal cases and that they are deprived from his legal defense.

Alaif Hasanov
In July 2015, the Presidium of the Bar Association decided to disbar lawyer Alaif Hasanov. Alaif Hasanov stated that he was not invited to the discussion on this issue, and was not even informed that it was taking place. He learned about the Bar Association’s decision through the organisation’s website. Alaif Hasanov stated that the official reason for the disbarment was the court decision dated 6 November 2014, sentencing him to community service based on the lawsuit brought by Nuriyya Huseynov, the former cellmate of Leyla Yunus (see above).

The cases of lawyers Intigam Aliyev and Alaif Hasanov show that lawyers are even subjected to criminal proceedings.

Intigam Aliyev
On April 22, 2015, the Baku Grave Crimes Court sentenced Intigam Aliyev to seven and-a-half year imprisonment on trumped-up charges of “tax evasion”, “abuse of authority”, “illegal entrepreneurship”, and “appropriation”. Aliyev denies all the charges and says they are politically motivated.

Aliyev was arrested in August 2014 and sent to pre-trial detention. Intigam Aliyev’s arrest and conviction appear to be related to his work. As a lawyer, he has submitted more than 200 applications to the European Court of Human Rights, 16 of which have resulted in rulings in favour of his clients. His arrest coincided with the European Court starting to address new complaints with Intigam Aliyev's assistance.44

Alaif Hasanov
In September 2014, Alaif Hasanov disseminated information about the threats against and beatings of his client Leyla Yunus in prison. Alaif Hasanov was the first one to speak about the condition and physical pressure against his client by her cell-mate, Nuriya Huseynova. Shortly thereafter, Hasanov has been subjected to a lawsuit by Yunus’ cell-mate, who accused him of passing information to mass media. Hasanov believes that the authorities used Huseynova to deprive him of the opportunity to defend Leyla Yunus. On 6 November 2014, the court sentenced the lawyer to 240 hours of community service.45

iii. Identification of lawyers with their clients or their clients’ causes as a result of discharging their functions

21. The United Nations Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers, state that “Lawyers shall not be identified with their clients or their clients’ causes as a result of discharging their functions.” In recent months, many human rights defenders were arrested on politically motivated charges. As set out above, lawyers dealing with these sensitive cases are subjected to harassment, criminal conviction, or disbarment on improper grounds, presumably, to prevent them from doing their work, depriving their clients from legal defense. Moreover, identification of lawyers with their clients may have a chilling effect as lawyers may be reluctant to defend persons in cases they would consider sensitive.

Recommendations:
22. The Human Rights Committee should address as a matter of priority the lack of effective measures of the government of Azerbaijan to ensure that lawyers are able to carry out their professional functions without threats, harassment or improper interference with their defence of clients, immediately impacting the right to effective legal representation as enshrined in Article 14 of the ICCPR.

23. The Human Rights Committee should address as a matter of priority the lack of effective measures of the government of Azerbaijan to prevent that lawyers suffer or be threatened with prosecution, disciplinary action or other sanctions on improper grounds.

V Freedom of expression and assembly of Lawyers

24. Lawyers, like any other individuals, have the right to freedom of expression. This right is guaranteed under article 19 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights. The freedom of expression that lawyers enjoy in connection to their professional functions should not only be guaranteed in light of the rights of the lawyer, but also in protection of the rights of their clients. The lawyer should be enabled to effectively protect the rights and interests of his or her client.

25. As this Committee stated in General Comment No.34 on Article 19:
“States Parties should put in place effective measures to protect against attacks aimed at silencing those exercising their right to freedom of expression. [...] Journalists are frequently subjected to such threats, intimidation and attacks because of their activities. So too are persons who engage in the gathering and analysis of information on the human rights situation and who publish human rights-related reports, including […] lawyers”.46

26. The disbarment of Aslan Ismayilov (see above) is therefore in contradiction with his right to freedom of expression.

27. Recommendation

The Human Rights Committee should address as a matter of priority the lack of effective protection to the right of freedom of expression of lawyers as set out in article 19 of the ICCPR, in particular their right to take part in public discussion of matters concerning the law, the administration of justice and the promotion and protection of human rights, without suffering professional restrictions by reason of their lawful action.

VI Bar Association of Azerbaijan

28. As demonstrated by the above mentioned cases under paragraph 19, the BAA is not an independent institution capable of protecting the interests of the legal profession in Azerbaijan. Instead, as documented in a report of the International Bar Association’s Human Rights Institute ‘it seems to act as an arm of government, frequently subjecting members involved in politically motivated trials to biased disciplinary proceedings resulting in disbarment’.47

Recommendation

29. The Human Rights Committee should address as a matter of priority the improper interference of the government of Azerbaijan with the Bar Association of Azerbaijan (BAA), also known as the Collegium of Advocates, preventing it from being an independent institution capable of protecting the interests of the legal profession in Azerbaijan.
